Dear John:

The Information and Communications Technology Council (ICTC) has long been a proponent of certification for IT professionals and practitioners at all career levels. We have viewed CIPS' Information Systems Professional (I.S.P.) designation as a top rung on our "ladder of recognition".

ICTC is therefore pleased to see that CIPS is partnering with other professional societies from around the world to create an international IT professional designation. We trust this new designation, with its international recognition, will further enhance the view of IT practitioners as true professionals.

ICTC wishes you the best of luck with this endeavour.

Sincerely,

Faye West, FCIPS, I.S.P.
Board Chair
